

Call for Editor: Journalism & Mass Communication Educator

Applications must be received by March 1, 2024

Applications are now being accepted for the editorship of Journalism & Mass Communication Educator.

Responsibilities include the prompt processing of all manuscripts submitted to Journalism & Mass Communication Educator (either by solicitation or submission); coordinating four issues per year; handling all correspondence relative to the publication; cooperating with the AEJMC Central Office on business and budget matters affecting the journal; reporting to and working with the Publications Committee on the continuous development of the journal; and preparing an annual report. The editor will work with the production and promotion representatives of the publisher.

The editor receives an annual honorarium of $5,000. The editor will receive additional funding to support an editorial assistant and travel. Editors are appointed for four-year terms.

Applicants must be AEJMC members in good standing. They should also be able to write and edit clearly and concisely; possess a strong commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion; have an understanding and appreciation of a broad range of research methods; have extensive knowledge of the literature of mass communication; and be housed in a department or school eager to cooperate in this publishing venture with special reference to such considerations as office space, travel, use of equipment and provision of student and/or staff assistance.

Applications must be received by March 1, 2024, via email, to Teri Finneman, Publications Committee editor search chair, at finnemte@gmail.com. Applicants should submit a CV and a 2page letter that outlines interest in the position, qualifications and what institutional support the applicant would have. Finalists will be asked to provide an official letter of support from their institution.

Anyone with questions can contact Finneman for more information.
